Figure 1.6. Typical DBA reporting structure

When an organization staffs application DBAs, they will be spread out in application groups, typically with a direct reporting line to the business programming managers. Each application development team has a dedicated application DBA resource, as shown in Figure 1.7.